

HJT solar cells feature ultra-thin layers of amorphous silicon on both sides, allowing for improved passivation and reduced recombination losses. This design maximizes electron capture and ...

